

INVESTIGATION OF SECURITIES DEPT. PLANNED

Crabbe Expected To Probe Though Now No Evidence

Columbus, O., July 18.—While admitting he has no evidence of any wrongdoing on the part of attaches of the state securities department, Attorney General Crabbe today indicated he would call for an investigation of that department.

The attorney general first called for such an investigation nearly a year ago and it is the financial operations of Attorney Louis W. Josephson, Columbus that may cause the probe to be resumed. Josephson was at liberty today on $25,000 bond, charged with embezzling $92,000 from the Ohio Industrial Endowment Fund Company, an investment concern of which he is an officer. The firm is now in the hands of a receiver.

Following the expose of alleged irregularities in the conduct of the endowment fund company at the request of a stockholder, a receiver was appointed for the Commercial Mortgage Company, controlled by Josephson.

The stockholder claimed this company was operated along lines similar to those regulating the endowment firm. It was also charged that there had not been a meeting of stockholders for two years.

Columbus, July 18.—Attorney General Crabbe announced he would ask the Franklin county prosecutor to make an inquiry into alleged relations of certain state officials with Attorney Louis W. Josephson, who was arrested on charges of embezzling $92,476.96 from the Ohio Industrial Endowment company, which is now in the hands of receivers.

The attorney general's department has had the endowment concern under surveillance for some time. Employees of the concern brought the case to Crabbe's attention a number of weeks ago, the attorney general said. Having no authority himself to subpoena witnesses in order to make a complete inquiry, Crabbe said he had the case called to the attention of the "blue sky" department, and subsequently to the building and loan division.

The employees who informed him what was taking place in the endowment concern, Crabbe said, had prepared their resignations when the "blue sky" department took no action, but were persuaded to remain with the company in order that certain books and records would be available for investigation. "We wanted to be certain that the records did not disappear, as happened in another Columbus case," Crabbe commented.

The company sold endowment certificates to persons on the basis of yearly payments, with the promise that at the end of a specified time the buyers would get the amount of their original investments with a profit. Receiver Maloney said that a rough estimate of the endowment company's ability to pay showed that each of the 5,000 endowment certificate investors, many of whom were laboring men and women, who had invested their small savings, probably will receive about 70 per cent of the money which they had paid into the company. The 8,000 stockholders, of whom 5,300 held preferred shares at $25 par value, and 2,700 common shares at no par, will stand to lose all they put into the concern, according to Maloney.

Joseph E. Costello, Cincinnati representative of the company, who brought the receivership action against Josephson, said that he probably would be instrumental in calling a meeting of the stockholders and reorganizing the concern.

EXTORTION PLOT IS FRUSTRATED

Bridgeport, Conn., July 18.—Police blocked a conspiracy to extort $5,000 from Mrs. Jennie Van Tassel, daughter of the late Edward Sterling, manufacturer. They arrested Robert W. Nolan, aged 52, a teamster, on suspicion of complicity in the affair. Mrs. Van Tassel received a letter signed by "The Gang," demanding that the money be left on her front porch under threat of death. Mrs. Van Tassel notified police and officers concealed themselves in the shrubbery about the house. When Nolan appeared he was arrested as he seized a dummy package. Nolan told the police a young man had offered him $2 to obtain the package and denied knowledge of the plot.

SITTING PRETTY UNTIL SNAKE DID ITS STUFF

Robert St. John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper St. John of the Hussey Pike, went out in the field near his home Tuesday afternoon and sat down in the grass to rest.

He noticed that a piece of paper on which he sat, kept moving but paid no attention and "just sat." When the "movement" became more frequent, young St. John investigated. He found that the supposed turf he sat on was a five-foot black snake. The snake was immediately dispatched.

The mate of the snake was found near the same spot Wednesday, and killed. The latter snake measured over five feet.

MERGER OF TWO BIG RAILROADS BEING REMOVED

Plan Would Join Nickle Plate and Pere Mar- quette Lines

New York, July 18.—A historic meeting in this city this week between representatives of the Nickel Plate railroad and the Pere Marquette system, may be the first step it was reported today in the consolidation of these carrier lines and their joining up with the Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley and Erie to form one of the largest and most important railroad systems in the United States.

Consummation of this merger, which was conceived by the two youthful magnates who have been making railroad history in the last year or two, would link competing lines serving the richest territory in the country and provide superior transportation facilities for their growing interchange of commodities.

The interstate commerce commission's plan does not take cognizance of private efforts to change the status of any of the roads by the infusion of new managing interests, either by the acquisition of stock in the open market, or by special arrangements between the directors of various roads. When, therefore, the Van Sweringen, of Cleveland, who have risen to power in the railroad world were looking around for a strategic link in the power system, they are building up, it was natural that they should be attracted to Pere Marquette which operates 1011 miles of high class road in Michigan, and 348 in other states and Canada.

No official announcement is yet forthcoming as the result of the meeting here between O. P. Van Sweringen and J. J. Bernet of the Nickel Plate and Chairman Brown and Director Thomas F. Woodstock of the Pere Marquette, but this is because no definite policy has been made for the interchange of stock. It was stated that the Van Sweringens had acquired 100,000 shares of the common stock of Pere Marquette but this would not give them anything like a controlling interest since there are 450,000 shares of common stock and 236,000 shares of preferred stock with equal voting power, outstanding.

The directors of Pere Marquette, have been apprised in a general way of the desire of the Van Sweringen group to exchange their stocks into stocks of a virtually new corporation which will issue securities in exchange for existing securities of the Nickel Plate, Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley and possibly the Erie road. Thus far the terms of the exchange have but vaguely stated but at the conclusion of the first conference in this city Wednesday it was said that the terms would be mailed to Pere Marquette directors in a few days. As the stock of the Nickel Plate is now selling par in the open market, while Pere Marquette commands 53, it is probably that the exchange will be on the basis of one of the former for two of the latter.

Pere Marquette directors in New York are reticent on the question of the proposed merger and intimate that much additional information will be needed before they can act intelligently on the matter.

CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH WHEN FIRE DESTROYS IRONTON HOME

Ironton, July 18.—Amy 12, Lindsay 10, and Cornelia Barber, 8, children of Albert Barber of Coal Grove, O., a suburb of Ironton, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home at one o'clock this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Barber and the youngest child, Maxine, 5, were saved, though all were painfully burned. Barber was awakened by smoke in the house. He broke out a window of his sleeping room and dragged his wife and youngest child to safety. Neighbors prevented him from re-entering the house to attempt rescue of the other children.

The fire started from a gas stove which was burning to keep the house warm. The family had been out in an automobile and returning started a fire to warm themselves. They went to sleep leaving the fire burning and it is thought the fire started from this stove.

REPARATIONS NOW UP TO EUROPE FESS SAYS IN COLUMBUS

Columbus, O., July 18.—"Our government has done everything possible to assist in ironing out the reparations difficulties existing in Europe," United States Senator Simeon D. Fess declared in an address before the exchange club here.

The next step, he said, is up to Europe. Radically different economic conditions in France and Germany make the reparations problems a difficult one to settle to the satisfaction of all concerned, the senator said. Britain has cause to hope for economic revival of Germany because that would mean a benefit for the former but in the case of France, Fess said, a revival in Germany would present a menace.

GANGSTER FOUND DEAD ON LONELY ROAD IS UNKNOWN

Chicago, July 18.—Gangland's port of missing men—the stretches of lonely roads and wooded hills south-west of this city, which police say, provide the favorite routes for beer and liquor caravans, today revealed another murder mystery, when the body of an unidentified man, two bullet wounds through the neck, was discovered by a farmer boy driving a cow home over a little used road.

Police believe the man to have been a victim of a battle between rival gangs of beer runners, fought probably in the dead of the night.

A coroner's examination revealed the man also had suffered fractures of both arms and one shoulder. All marks which might lead to his identification had been removed from his clothing.

LEAPS TO DEATH IN AVOIDING ARREST

New York, July 18.—Two negro bandits, Simpkin Goldwire and Herman Bing, members of a gang of four who lured a taxicab driver to the roof of a six story building in Harlem's "Black Belt," and robbed him of $40 at the point of a pistol, fell to their death early today, when they tried to escape by jumping across a 20 foot airway.

The other two bandits escaped.

BRITISH LABOR GOVERNMENT IS BEATEN IN HOUSE

London, July 18.—The labor government of Premier Ramsay MacDonald was defeated in the house of commons today by an adverse vote of 171 to 149.

The members however were in a state of excitement, although it was the eighth defeat the government has sustained.

The slayers ran from the building and fled in an automobile.

MAY SEND WARSHIPS TO BRAZIL TO PROTECT AMERICANS AT SANTOS

Four Light Cruisers in Caribbean Are Available— American Consul Expected To Appeal if There Is Further Danger.

Washington, July 18.—The state and navy departments today are expected to receive another call from the American consul at Sao Paulo, Brazil, for warships to protect American life and property there and at the port of Santos, according to advices from the revolution area.

Both Under Secretary of State Grew and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur today declined either to affirm or deny the report that a new appeal had been received, but it is known that both departments are considering the emergency.

The complete stopping of all news reports from Brazil has made the situation difficult here and the meager consular reports received, are several days old in each case.

The United States has four of the old light cruisers of the special service squadron in the Caribbean and anyone of these could be dispatched to Santos on short notice. They are the Rochester, enroute from Key West to Cartagena, the Galveston, patrolling Mexican waters, and the Cleveland and the Tulsa, basing of Balboa at the Pacific entrance of the Panama Canal.

The United States naval mission, consisting of sixteen officers and 19 petty officers under command of Admiral Carl T. Vogel Giesing, is still in Brazil helping to train the Brazilian navy but the mission has no ships and would be unable to assist in case American lives and property became endangered. The mission went to Brazil in December 1922 at the request of the Brazilian government and has been there since.

The city of Sao Paulo is surrounded by 15,000 federal troops, who are bombarding rebel forces located there, the state department cable from Santos stated.

Official advices to the Brazilian embassy said that the federal troops had obtained possession of a great part of Sao Paulo.

Other advices say the situation in Brazil, where the army of the state of Sao Paulo has rebelled, is very acute. The rebellion was plotted by important chieftains of the Brazilian army, with the aid of high political leaders of the state of Sao Paulo, who are in contact with the revolutionary elements of other states. A big banking house, believed to have official connections, is financing the revolt. The revolutionary troops comprise about 6,000 men, with abundant war material.

The movement has as its primary purpose the establishment of a new federal regime and will demand complete amnesty for participants in the uprising in Rio Janeiro in 1922.

CUTS IN GRAIN FREIGHT RATES ARE REFUSED

Interstate Commerce Com- mission Turns Down Requests.

Washington, July 18.—The interstate commerce commission refused the request of farm organizations for reductions in western railroad rates on grain, grain products and hay, sought by 10 states of the Mississippi-Missouri valley.

In its decision the commission held that the financial status of the carriers did not justify the step, and that the financial condition of the western grain farmers was showing a slow improvement, relieving them of the necessity for the reduction.

The commission decided that the results of an independent investigation it had conducted into the level of rates on these same products in all sections of the United States had demonstrated no need for any changes, and proceedings before it bearing upon both issues were dismissed. Railroad earnings in the western region from the Rocky mountains to the Great Lakes and south as far as Texas would have been reduced about $17,500,000 annually had the contention of the producing states been granted.

Commissioners McChord, McManamy, Eastman, Campbell and Lewis dissented from the decision, which had a majority of one. The rates affected by the decision are those applied to wheat throughout the growing territory, where it constitutes the most important crop, and have presented the most troublesome and controversial problem before the commission in recent years.

SEEKING ANOTHER FOR SLAYING OF ARMY OFFICER

Columbia, S. C., July 18.—A police dragnet was thrown out today for Frank Harrill, a cotton mill worker, wanted as an accessory in the murder of Major Samuel H. McLeary, army artillery expert.

Accompanied by a posse of state and federal officers, King located the body of his victim late yesterday in the swampland near Cheraw.

A CLEVER DODGE

The Greene County Hardware Company, had a clever Dodge sedan.

It must have been a clever Dodge to attract so many prospective customers when they wanted to sell it.

But the Dodge does not deserve all the credit for producing these satisfactory results. Justice demands that the Hon. Charles E. Hughes be given the credit for cleverness be given to the "Used Car" ad which this company inserted in the classified columns of the Gazette-Republican. The ad sold the Dodge in three days for them.

Putting the classified ad in The Gazette-Republican is in itself a clever dodge. Substantiation of this statement will be found in a trial. Just call 111.

JUSTICES OF PEACE HAVE NO AUTHORITY OUTSIDE TOWNSHIPS

Columbus, July 18.—Justices of the peace have no jurisdiction over persons committing an offense in another township, according to the ruling of Common Pleas Judge Charles M. Rogers, who held they can not proceed to try them even to the extent of a preliminary trial. In some cases village motorcycle police have been chasing motorists for 10 and 15 miles and compelling them to return to be tried before a justice on speeding and traffic violation charges, sometimes without cause, it is alleged.

Judge Rogers handed down his decision in the cases of J. L. Rockwell and 13 other men, who were tried, convicted and sentenced on gambling charged before Justice A. C. Kuhn, Bexley, Marion township, this county. He pointed out that although the warrants against the 14 men were sworn out before Kuhn, the alleged offenses were committed in Hamilton township.

There were several disappointments in the defeat of R. Norris Williams at tennis and the failure of W. E. Garrett Gilmore to repeat his victory over Jack Beresford in the single sculls. Of the seven races at Argenteuil the United States was victorious in the eight-oared event and in the double sculls, in which Kelly and Costello, the American pair, showed the way.

HOME IS CORNERSTONE OF CIVILIZATION DR. M'CHESNEY TELLS CONVENTION DELEGATES

"The home is one of the chief cornerstones of our civilization," said Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College in an address on "The Cornerstones of Civilization," at the evening session of the Greene County Sunday School Association convention at the First Presbyterian Church, Thursday night.

As the home is, so will civilization be. Our Pilgrim fathers stood for the highest and best type of Christian home-makers. We honor that inheritance and we today must strive to maintain the same ideals of home that were kept by our Pilgrim fathers years ago.

"Every home should begin with God and continue with God forever. The family altar is the citadel of God in our home, that is where the words and songs of praise and prayer went forth to God. We need that sort of home today, to train the boys and girls into Christian men and women who go out into the world, a God-fearing man or woman.

"Every member of a Christian home should have a trusting place with God. The power of a Christian home lies not within the bounds of its small community but goes into the city, the state and the nation.

"Another chief cornerstone of Christianity is the public school. Massachusetts gave the public school system which has reached out all over the United States. Our public school system today is not as it was then. At first it was conducted largely by the ministers. In those public schools, religion was taught. Today the public school has become so secular that they are afraid of the name of God. We, as a nation should tremble when we begin to be afraid of the name of God and when we are afraid to have that name in the books used in the schools.

"The United States is a Christian nation and our boys and girls would be trained in the public school to know God and Christ. Some tell us they would obtain that training in the home.

"The majority of the homes are not Christian homes and then the child fails to get any religious training whatsoever. The Bible should be kept in the public schools; every reader should contain the name of God and Jesus Christ; every reader should contain some moral and spiritual influence.

"The government of the United States is another cornerstone in Civilization. We should be thankful to have such men as Calvin Coolidge and John W. Davis to run for the presidency of the United States. They are both sterling, Christian men. Every true American should take a deeper and more abiding interest in the vote that will soon be taken. I wonder when any man or woman thinks of violating the law of the United States, if they have ever been to Saratoga or Concord or Gettysburg and have seen row after row of the graves of those brave men who fought and gave their lives for the maintaining of a Christian Nation? I love my country because of its constitution; because it stands against the winds that blow and because its flag is the oldest flag!

"The chief corner stone is Religion. A man without a God is like a Solar system without a sun. If everyone had one mind, one heart and one purpose, the nation would not be divided into so many sects and denominations. I believe in the unity of the church organically. We must live together for the highest things in the home, the school, the nation and the world. We must have on faith and one Lord, then we will accomplish the Word of God."

The meeting opened with an organ selection by Miss Stella Bishop. The program was devoted to the young people of the church and the devotional were in charge of Miss Alberta Cresswell of Cedarville. Miss Cresswell, gave a short talk emphasizing the fact that Christian people must have a firm belief in God in order to do His work and carry on the work of the church.

The devotional exercises were followed by special music by the First Presbyterian choir of this city and several selections by the Beaver Creek Reformed Church Orchestra.

Miss Mary Ervin who was in charge of the meeting introduced Dr. McChesney, who gave the main talk.

The needs of the knowledge of the Ten Commandments and their observance, was stressed by Mrs. Frank Dean, of this city, principal of the Daily Vacation Bible School, in her address on "Training of the Child" at the afternoon session. The children should be taught the Commandments and to observe them, since they embody the highest moral creed and will develop the child in the proper manner, she said.

Mrs. E. J. Converse, of Columbus, children's division superintendent of Franklin County, gave a splendid address on "Service of the Child" following that of Mrs. Dean. She laid down several fundamental matters that she said should be observed in the training of the child.

Leroy Bolen of Jamestown and Ralph Baldwin of this city, sang solos during the service. After the afternoon devotional exercises, a nominating committee was appointed with Mrs. W. O. Custis, chairman.

ADDRESSES MARK MORNING SESSION OF S S MEETING

A presentation of the adult work in the Sunday School was given by the Rev. Henry J. Christman, D. D., Dayton, president of the Central Theological Seminary at the Friday morning session of the Greene County Sunday School Association convention, at the First Presbyterian Church.

"There is a danger of emphasizing that most Christians are brought to Christ in the earlier years and that people will think there is no use for later years," he declared.

"Saints are not those who died and have gone to heaven but when the life is set apart for God it becomes saintly. Building life is the greatest thing in the world. The work of the church is the perfecting of saints.

"Our Relation to County, State and National Sunday School organization," was the subject of the Rev. Frank A. Shults, Dayton, Ex-Secretary of the Montgomery County Sunday School Council, following the Rev. Mr. Christman's address. The Rev. Mr. Shults' address was followed by a general discussion.

FREE VERSE AUTHOR SUBJECT OF TALK

"Carl Sandburg and Vers Libre" was the subject of Miss Mary Elizabeth Barnicle, of Antioch College, in an address at the Old Barn Club, Dayton, Thursday afternoon.

There are three outstanding free verse poets, according to Miss Barnicle, who named them as Edgar Lee Matthews, Amy Lowell and Carl Sandburg. The last she named as the greatest, claiming that his free verse utterances is natural to him where it has been cultivated in many other free verse writers.

Sandburg has done a great deal for the verse libre and modern poetry movement, said Miss Barnicle. In the first place he has adopted an original vocabulary. No word is ostracized by him from his poems if it has the attribute of saying what he wishes it to say.

He is often original, seldom banal; generally powerful, infrequently brutal. He shows the tenderness of pitying strength and at times introduces a note of unusual beauty into his poems.

Miss Barnicle read a number of his poems in illustration of the different aspects of his work, in a manner which compelled admiration for the poet.

"Paris of Today" is the subject of next Thursday's lecture.

COURT NEWS

WIFE IS DIVORCED

Bertha M. Hortman has been granted a divorce from Charles T. Hortman in Common Pleas Court, on the grounds of wilful absence for more than three years.

PROPERTY TO BE SOLD

In the case of W. L. Miller, administratrix of the estate of John S. Alexander, deceased, against G. G. Alexander, and others, in Common Pleas Court, the court found that the timber tract in the real estate of the deceased is deteriorating and that it is for the best interests of the trust to sell the timber on the premises. The court ordered that the proceeds be applied to repairs and improvements on the real estate and that the balance of the funds be given to the trustee for the benefit of the person in trust.

MORTGAGE APPROVED

The petition of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, St. Marks, of Osborn, to incumber real estate by mortgage has been approved in Common Pleas Court. The court sanctioned the $10,000 mortgage placed with The Home Buildings and Savings Company, of Xenia, by the church council towards payment of a new church building.

In the case of Jessie Hapner, administratrix of the estate of Denver Hapner, deceased, against India Bonalyn Hapner and others, the court approved the bond furnished by the plaintiff, and ordered the plaintiff to advertise the real estate for sale for not less than two-thirds of the appraisement. The appraisement was made on two pieces of property at $5,000 each.

RELEASE BONE AND HEERY ON BOND; EACH ADMITS ONE CHARGE

William Heery and Earl Bone, arrested with Karl Keller and William Stryder in connection with a number of burglaries in recent months, were released from the County Jail Thursday after they had furnished bonds of $500 each fixed on their arraignment before Magistrate J. E. Jones several days ago.

Stryder has still been unable to furnish bond and is still being held in the County Jail. Stryder and Keller together are said to have confessed to perpetrating fourteen burglaries in Xenia, Jamestown, Bellbrook, Spring Valley, Martinsville and Waynesville. Their signed confessions are said to admit they were involved in all the robberies.

Heery's statement to authorities admitted a part in the burglary of the Sayre and Hemphill drug store only. He said he was with Keller and Stryder the same night when a hardware store in Waynesville was burglarized but that he did not enter the building. Bone was also involved in only one case. He admitted being with Keller in the burglary of the office of The Greene County Lumber Company.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

A surplus of from 5 to 10 per cent in the number of apartments is necessary to keep rents stable. If the surplus is larger, rents go down; if it is smaller, rents go up.

Would you be satisfied to walk into a shoe store and have a salesman politely hand you a pair of shoes and inform you that there was just one pair of shoes for each customer? Certainly not.

You want to choose your shoes and the store must have some left over after every one has chosen, if it wants to give satisfaction.

The same thing applies to apartments. There must be a surplus so that people can choose, not just enough to supply everybody. If there were just one apiece, people would bid for the most desirable apartments and rent would go up.

If there were too many, people would get too choicy and rents would go down.

Forest Fires Under Control.

San Francisco, July 18.—Cool, humid weather and moderating winds joined forces with some 10,000 fire fighters in checking the forest fires which have been laying waste to thousands of acres of timber, brush and grazing land on the Pacific coast. In all of the fire zones the situation is improved, reports indicated. These reports showed that the fire in the vicinity of Kellogg, Idaho, was probably the most serious at present.

MODISH MITZI—Will Polly Join Her? Rather!

"Do come," says Mitzi's letter and Polly is prepared to take the next train—except that she must do some shopping first. The dress she is wearing is a dotted Swiss—deep blue—with a three layer collar of organdie. There are several things she must buy.

For instance, she wants one of the new circular sports skirts. They are newer than the pleated or wrap-around ones. This is just a plain white flannel and is worn with a tucked blouse. The wide leather belt is another newness which Polly hopes Mitzi hasn't heard of.

And one of the Toga Towel robes, too. This is a garment made of two lengths of striped Turkish towelling joined only at the shoulders. It can be worn as a beach robe and when cleverly manipulated, as a beach cape too—as witness Polly's experimenting. Grey and mauve stripes.

And another absolutely new article to complete her sports wardrobe is this tailored sports shirt for playing tennis or golf. It is made like an envelope and won't pull out of shape. Polly's quite satisfied. She'll have something to show Mitzi.

BRITISH BANKS BALK AT MAKING LOAN TO BERLIN

British bankers, if they adhere to their privately expressed determination, will not participate in a loan to Germany, as provided in the Dawes reparation report, so long as the French control any commission or committee whose duty it shall be to determine whether Germany is in default of payments.

It is a question in financial quarters whether the participation of an American on the Reparations Commission without the official backing of Washington would eliminate the French power on the commission to the extent that British financiers would be willing to take the loan risk.

The exact situation that exists between Premier Herriot of France, and Prime Minister MacDonald, of England, on the essential question of the Reparation Commission, is not clear in the minds even of bankers or political observers, notwithstanding the rather full explanations given out after the Premier's Paris meeting. It cannot be ascertained how far Mr. MacDonald backed down in his conversations with M. Herriot until the cards are laid on the table at the conference that opens Wednesday, July 16, in London.

If Mr. MacDonald in his effort to save M. Herriot and, incidentally, protect himself against the reaction that the French Premier's fall would have had on his own political fortunes, has given away too much ground, then he cannot expect the support of British bankers and the conference will end, just as have many of its predecessors, in nothing being done.

That attitude is not the result of any desire whatever to see the conference wrecked, even among Prime Minister MacDonald's opponents, but rather it exists despite the sincere hope that something good will result.

That result must be tangible to attract British money. The attitude here seems ably reflected in one sentence in the London Sunday Observer: With the keenest desire possible to see the two Prime Ministers reach a ground of genuine agreement, we find it difficult to write very hopefully.

"WHY" THE NEW WORLD IS DIFFERENT FROM THE OLD WORLD

The comparative unimportance of Brazil in the international political scheme is illustrated by the slight attention that is being paid to the insurrectionary movement in the State of Sao Paulo. It has not yet reached the proportions of a civil war; evidently there was a local quarrel and the revolutionists have been able to drive the State Government from the capital. It is the intervention of the Federal Government that gives the movement the aspect of civil war—which indeed, might be the second stage in case the rebels are able to hold out for any length of time. Let such an insurrection take place in Greece, in Turkey, in Egypt and the world immediately show great concern. In Brazil, one of the largest nations on earth, it excites no worry. The fundamental reason is that the Monroe Doctrine has kept Latin America isolated for a century from world political currents. Any conflict there is localized and minimized. The New World is different from the Old—and separate.

REAL EDUCATION

In the first days of summer a great many young people are trying to sell to the world the training they received at school and college.

They have been forewarned that they cannot expect a door ajar the moment they knock. And they have been forewarned as well with all that books and pedagogues can impart.

But now they must learn for themselves that fire burns and water drowns, and they must depend on their own wit and will. Their true education is beginning.

We are told of certain great men that they lacked formal schooling. Yet it is clear from what they did that they were forever learning. Pain and adversity may have taught them more than ease and pleasure, though instruction need not always be a bitter medicine.

Life itself is the great school for life. That harsh taskmaster, experience, whose rod is ever lifted ready to fall, has pupils of ages and every social condition. Those who crumple and give beneath the punishment are the weaklings, the quitters; those who accept the discipline as a salutary chastening and apply the lesson are those whose ultimate success is assured.

THE FIRST WATCH

If I were asked one thing to name Richer in pleasure's golden thrall Which it has been my lot to claim, One treasure which surpasses all The many which have made me glad.

The greatest source of pride and joy Would be that first real watch I had When I was but a little boy.

I found it at my breakfast plate One birthday morning years ago, Nor have I language now to state The gladness of that startled:

"Oh! A watch! A real watch for me!" Such pleasure never comes again, But once in life a boy can be So happy with a watch and chain.

The pride I felt I could not mask, Its ticking was a sound sublime, Hoped that passers-by would ask If I could tell to them the time, Hundred times a day compelled by happy fears my play I dropped to my ears that watch I held, He convinced it hadn't stopped.

And to me the world must know I possessed a time piece true; A treasure I must show proudly I did it, too. A thousand looks to see those hands were moving, And if men noticed me that gentle ticking sound.

A first watch here I sing A feeble hymn of praise, Gratified I bring Joy of bygone days. Tell a boy, at I have found it, joy

In that first watch he soon shall own.

GUN CLUB HOUSE IS MADE USEFUL

The old gun club building near the Xenia Country Club has been converted into a caddy house and a caretaker's headquarters.

It was transported from its old position near the trap shooting grounds to a place east of the tennis courts at the golf club.

The first hole on the golf links will probably be extended in the near future to the location formerly occupied by the gun club house.

Struck by Automobile. Akron, O., July 18.—Mrs. John Minor, 69, of St. Clairsville, mother of nine children, died at the home of a daughter here, due to being struck by an automobile several weeks ago as Mrs. Minor was en route from a theater to her daughter's home.

JUICE OF LEMON WHITENS THE SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orcharde White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It cannot irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

Prof. Semis Good, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Good, of North

At the initial session of the fortieth meeting of the Grand Lodge of Elks, W. J. O. Brien of Baltimore was elected grand exalted ruler over Samuel H. Needs of Cleveland. Many Xenia Elks were in attendance at the meeting.

Campers sometimes get tired of fried fish, pancakes and the other conventional camp dishes. Under such circumstances the following dishes will be found most welcome:

Baked Corn Dish: Turn one can of corn into an earthenware crock and stir into it one well-beaten egg and salt and pepper to season. Cover, then stand in the crock in hot wood-fire embers for an hour or more. Then serve.

Tomato-Cheese Frump: Turn one can of tomatoes into an earthenware crock, stir into it one-half pound of mild, American cheese shaved thinly, add a pinch of salt and either one tablespoon of flour or one-half cup of bread crumbs, then stand the crock in only mildly warm wood-embers and leave till the embers are cold, or for one-half hour (very intense heat toughens cheese, while moderate heat merely melts it and gives it a creamy consistency.)

Quick Raisin Bread: Sift together four cups of flour, four heaping teaspoons of baking powder and one-half teaspoon of salt. Add to this two cups of slightly-thinned, unsweetened canned milk and two fresh, well-beaten eggs, then also add one cup of either seedless raisins, dried currants or chopped walnut meats. Divide the batter into two loaf-cake or bread pans, put these pans into a deep iron kettle on a homemade wire rack, cover the kettle, and slip it into an oven, made as follows:

TAKE AND LEAVE

We too often make ourselves believe that the things we most desire are essential things.

And often these very things are just what we should not have for our bodily and spiritual growth.

Life is largely a take-and-leave proposition. Our measure of happiness results from what we take and what we leave. Most of us learn that many of the things which we leave are exactly what we should have left. And we admit it.

We can't have everything. So this is one of the first lessons we must learn—that contentment, a reasonable contentment, is making the most of what we choose and being a good sport about what we have to leave.

It is rare that we do not discover something that already lies in our own hearts merely by looking into the face of someone else.

Stevenson says that "We are as heartily persuaded of the identity of those we love as of our own identity."

We see the picture of our own mistakes reflected in the mirror of others. And then, in turn, see themselves in what we are and do.

If we are intensely and overwhelmingly human we are highly bread in understanding. We can blunder but we cannot easily be pillaged of our birthright.

Take and leave!

Learn to take well, and leave in big fashion.

To live upon regrets is like hoping for health from feeding on cast-off husks.

WOMAN AND CHILD BURNED TO DEATH WHEN HOUSE BURNS

Prairie Depot, O., July 18.—Mrs. Ira Bolland, 31, and her three year old daughter, Ruth were burned to death when their home one mile south of here was destroyed by flames at 5:30 this morning.

Health Hints
by the Father of Physical Culture

If a child gets acute tonsillitis, all feeding should be stopped. The throat gets very sore and appetite vanishes, and this is Nature's way of declaring a food embargo. Give a cathartic such as castor oil, to clear the bowels keep the child comfortable; if the throat is so sore that drinking is torture gently inject a cup of water by rectum at least four times in twenty-four hours. Give no food, liquid or solid until the fever disappears and the throat is easy. There is no danger in having a child fast three or four days. The little one may get pale, peaked, and thin, but when eating is resumed that is soon remedied. On this treatment the trouble is soon over, without complications. If the child is fed, the disease is prolonged and there are apt to be complications.

Adults can fool with their throats if they want to, but a child's throat should be handled with care. If any local treatment is to be administered, it should be done by someone with the proper training, skill, and experience. It is safe to use warm water gargles of either common baking soda or sea common table salt, one teaspoonful dissolved in a pint of water, or to use such solutions to swab out the mouth and throat. But no amateur should attempt to use instruments, or antiseptics, or strong remedies in a child's throat. The chances of making a mistake or causing injury are too great.

The salt solution is a gentle astringent. The same is true of glycerin mixed with water, which may be used if the throat is badly swollen.

A wet pack on the throat is always good in these conditions. It is safe to use a cloth wrung out of warm water, so that it is quite wet but does not drip. Wrap this about the neck, or merely place it on the front and sides of the neck, if you can make it stay that way; have this wet cloth well up under the chin. Cover this wet cloth with several layers of flannel, which need not be red flannel. Let this stay on for about an hour. It is usually very helpful in helping to reduce engorgement.

BAPTIST MINISTER GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

No greater praise can be accorded a medicine than the voluntary testimony of a minister of the gospel. The preacher's high calling puts a grave responsibility on his every word, and he will not jeopardize his reputation by commending a thing without first assuring himself it is all right.

Tanlac has been endorsed by members of prominent ministers. They have put Tanlac to the test of personal service and their words carry conviction because they say what they know to be the truth.

One of the latest to speak out in behalf of Tanlac is Rev. B. E. Bell, a retired Baptist minister, 201 Elm St., San Antonio, Texas, who says: "Before taking Tanlac I had suffered from stomach and nerve troubles for over 30 years and there were times when my condition was such that it required almost superhuman effort for me to prepare my sermons and go through with my Sunday services. Indeed, my work seemed like some great obstacle across my pathway—a burden too big to carry in my weak physical condition."

"But in six weeks' time Tanlac transformed my entire outlook, giving me what seemed like a new set of nerves and a brand new digestive system. My appetite became ravenous, my nerves steady, my liver action regular and I could sleep sound for the first time in years. When ever I have the slightest symptoms of trouble now I always resort to Tanlac, am taking some at present, and it never fails to smooth things out for me. I certainly have the best of reasons for feeling grateful to Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

DOROTHY LANE goes to New York to visit PERSE GRANT and try to break into the movies. She meets

LAWRENCE FRENCH, a young publicity man, and after a quarrel with Persis, goes to a girl's club with

SYLVIA STEARNS and lives there. Through French, she meets JOHN SEWARD, a famous star, and is engaged as his leading lady in an independent production that he is making. Seward, known as "the great lover of the screen," falls in love with her. Realizing that she cared more for Lawrence French than for him, she is much upset. Returning from a location trip early one morning, she sees Sylvia and Lawrence driving to the railway station together, and feels sure that they are eloping. But a note from Sylvia explains that she has an engagement with a stock company out of town and is leaving to fill it. An agent phones her, asking her to see him concerning work. There she meets a movie magnate, EIKHORN, who offers her an engagement, and wants her to dine with him. Having an engagement with French, she refuses.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT.

XXXIII—A MOMENT OF ROMANCE

I THINK most any girl would have been happy to be with Lawrence that evening. He is awfully good looking, and big, and he was wearing white flannel trousers and a dark blue coat, and looked wonderful in them. I saw a girl at the next table look at him, and then turn and speak to the girl and the two men who were with her, and I didn't feel at all surprised; I was so proud of him myself that I wouldn't have felt amazed if everybody there had turned around to look at him.

"There's a girl over there who's awfully interested in you, Larry," I said, and he laughed and turned to look over at her. And then he excused himself to me, quite excitedly, saying, "It's a girl I used to know," and rushed over to their table.

It was silly, but I felt hurt. I couldn't have done anything else, if he was polite, of course—and yet I hated having him jump up and leave me that way.

"She lived next door to me when we were just kids," he told me when he came back, a few moments later. "We played around together for years, and when I was in college she went to boarding school not far away, and used to come down to proms and things with me. Pretty, isn't she?"

She was pretty—I think maybe that was one reason why I'd sort of hated having him leave me to speak to her. And she was dressed beautifully—nobody would wear clothes like that if they had to pay their own laundry bills, I decided.

Lawrence and I passed their table when we went up to the dance floor, and he introduced us. Her name was Priscilla Graves, but Lawrence called her Fussy.

I have never known anybody else who danced as Lawrence does. And I've never liked so well to dance with any one else. It's sort of, if something quite outside of you swept you along, and you aren't conscious of really dancing at all—the music carries you.

It was wonderful that night, with the music throbbing and singing as if it had been my heart, somehow, and the rose lights on the little tables dimmed by the beauty of the moonlight outside, and the harbor lights twinkling there below us. I felt as if I were in fairyland. And I wished that that dance could last forever.

"Pretty wonderful, little girl," Lawrence said to me, as he let me go when the music stopped at last. I couldn't answer; I could only look at him. And then he stepped over to the orchestra leader and said something, and the music began another encore.

"I had to have one more—there'll never be another dance like this," Lawrence said softly, putting his arm around me.

And so we danced again. We didn't talk at all—we didn't have to. There wasn't any need to tell what was in our hearts.

We had to stop at last. And as we went down the few steps to the floor Priscilla Graves beckoned to us.

"I've had two extra chairs put at our table," she said gayly. "It's such ages since I've seen Larry that I simply must have a good visit with him. We were childhood sweethearts, you know. And this is my only chance—I'm sailing for England tomorrow," she explained to me.

So we sat down at the other table, with Lawrence next Priscilla, and she promptly began to monopolize him and make things uncomfortable for me.

I leaned back in my chair, feeling terribly out of things. When I first came from home I'd have known how to talk to these people, but now I'd been with just motion-picture people for so long, and so completely absorbed in my work, that I didn't feel at ease with outsiders at all. I wished that I could go home.

And then two men came in and sat down at the table next to ours, and I heard one of them exclaim: "Well, just look at our little neighbor."

I turned around trying to place the voice, which was very familiar. And Mr. Eikhorn rose and bowed to me, with a smile that made me feel terribly uncomfortable.

YOUNG SLAYERS ARE INSANE ATTORNEY SAYS IN STATEMENT

Chicago, July 17.—Clarence Darrow, chief counsel, outlined the case of the defense in the trial of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of 14-year-old Robert Franks, which will begin Aug. 4.

Darrow holds the youths are not guilty of murder as legal circles look upon it. He sketched the defense as it has been built up by more than a dozen physicians who have examined Leopold and Loeb in the death cell of the county jail. Darrow said:

"Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb are unbalanced mentally and do not live, think or act in the way that rational beings, as the medical world knows them, do in everyday life. Leopold, a few months older, more precocious, and less affected by human emotions than young Loeb, is the better example of a deranged mind. He lives in an entirely different world than that in which you and I exist."

"In his mind he has built a wall which shuts him from the conventionalities of the present day and makes him the super-man. He does not believe in the laws that rule us. If the jury which tries these boys sends them to the gallows they will be hanging two boys who are insane and will be doing an act against the common law of every nation. The lawyers and the doctors who have examined Leopold and Loeb, and even their parents, are convinced that it would not be safe to let them go free on the streets or in society at large. We will not, therefore, attempt to have them go free, but we will make every effort to forestall their hanging. They should be committed to an insane asylum."

Mr. Darrow announced that examination of the young murderers has been completed and the findings of the alienists and psychiatrists is ready for the jury. Not more than three or four of the doctors will actually take the witness stand, he indicated.

On July 21, when Judge John A. Caverly is to hear any and all motions in the case, Darrow is prepared to demand that the defendants be given a sanity hearing rather than a criminal trial. If this fails, the defense will argue for a postponement from Aug. 4.

"The public has been excited by this murder," Darrow said, "and it has heard one side principally. The trial should be postponed until public opinion is settled upon rational thinking."

XXXII—JUST HAPPINESS

"GEE, but it's wonderful to see you again, Dodo," Lawrence exclaimed, staring down at me as if there hadn't been anybody else in the world. For a moment I forgot all other people, too; then I realized that the corridor was full of people, and most of those around us were looking at Lawrence and me and smiling.

"No more wonderful than it is to see you," I told him. "I saw you this morning, though, with Sylvia."

"Oh, on the way to the train," he laughed, as he took my arm and turned toward the door. "She was so excited that she needed a guard-lan-lucky thing I was on hand to look after her. I met John Seward in the railway station, and we had breakfast together. And if he's right about you—and I don't see any reason to doubt his judgment—Miss Dorothy Lane is going to be one of the biggest stars on the screen within a year."

You can imagine how that made me feel; hearing such news as that and being with Lawrence, too, seemed almost too much.

We took a taxi and drove through the downtown section of the city and then across Brooklyn Bridge to the hotel where we were to dine. And all the way we passed people on foot and in the crowded street cars who looked so tired and uncomfortable and unhappy that I wondered why they cared to go on living. I was so radiantly happy myself that I couldn't help wishing happiness was like money, and could be distributed among people in the same way.

And seeing those crowds made me understand, too, why Persis felt that, even if she could get a job as a stenographer, she wouldn't want to go back to that way of earning her living. You work awfully hard in motion pictures, but there's a fascination about it that gets you, even when you've had just the least taste of it.

We were to dine on the roof of the hotel, Lawrence had told me, and when I stepped out of the elevator I knew why he had selected that particular place.

The roof was fixed like the deck of a ship. There were life preservers lashed to the posts at the sides, and everything was so spick and span and interesting. One part was raised a few steps higher than the rest, and there was a dance floor there and an orchestra. And oh, such wonderful music as they were playing when we came in!

We sat down on the main floor, right at the edge—and far below was the wonderful harbor, all golden in the sunset light. I could see the Statue of Liberty, and the army post over on Governor's Island, and all the swarm of small boats that filled the harbor. And there was one great liner moving slowly along on its way out to sea—I wondered if I would ever go abroad.

I haven't the faintest idea what we had for dinner; I know that the food was wonderful, but I was so happy and excited that I could hardly eat. I didn't want to do much but just sit and look at Lawrence and hear him talk.

He was awfully happy, too—any one could see that. But after that moment when we met we both felt rather embarrassed; we didn't talk about anything that was personal, and we tried to talk steadily, because silence seemed so significant. But every little while I'd find myself beginning a sentence and then somehow forgetting to finish it, and Lawrence lighted one cigarette three times and then gave up trying to smoke—we simply couldn't keep our minds on things like that.

It was growing dark by the time we finished dinner, and the rose-shaded lights on the tables were lighted. Really, it was like a scene in a play. The people were all so well dressed, and the setting was so beautiful. And I knew that I'd never have a part that I loved any more than the one I was playing that evening.
